THE DYNAMICS OF THE GOLD RUSH YEARS TO BE EXPLORED AT FORT MASON CONFERENCE

The Gold Rush: What if it never happened?

But it did. And the dynamics of its impact will be presented at the Golden Gate National Park Service's Gold Rush Multi-Disciplinary Conference, on Nov. 19-20 in Building A, with lectures and panel discussions by noted authors and historians. Topics being explored include: Chinese Herbalists in the Gold Rush; The Birth of California's Penal System; Exploitative Forces & Traditional Survival; The Impact of the Gold Rush on Daguerean Artist Richard Carr; and The Role of Women.

Drama and music full of earthy authenticity will be provided by arias, parlor ballads, saloon songs, and miners' ditties performed by the Mother Lode Music Theatre under the direction of Corrine Swall. Also on Saturday night, the San Francisco Chinese Opera Troupe, under the direction of Jack Chen, will perform a traditional Chinese opera of the Gold Rush period complete with commentary.

The film "A Picture is Worth a Thousand Words," by graphic artist Jean La Marr and the Gold Rush Women's Project, will document the lives of four Gold Rush women.

On view to the public for the first time will be remnants from the Gold Rush steamers TENNESSEE and WINFIELD SCOTT, wrecked on the treacherous California coast, and the NIANTIC, buried under downtown San Francisco when she outlived her usefulness to early Californians. Sunday afternoon there will be a tour of the maritime complex, and books on the Gold Rush period will be on sale. For more information, call Robert Schwendinger at the Maritime Humanities Center, 771-3488, or Golden Gate National Recreation Area Historian Jim Delgado, at 556-9504. The cost of the conference is $5 or $3 for seniors and students.

MEDIA ALLIANCE (MA) is a non-profit organization of 2300 Bay Area media workers, including writers, editors, photographers, video and film producers, journalists, and computer and broadcast personnel.
